

Comprehension/Knowledge Building, Grade 4-6

Research shows that students need very focused systematic instruction in using comprehension strategies if they are to become proficient readers. This course demonstrates the necessary components of effective comprehension instruction: introduction to strategy use; expert modeling; prompting student use of reading strategies; turning responsibility for use of reading strategies over to the students. Learning to be active, engaged, effective readers is a goal all students can achieve.